Foreword

1963-1964, a year of growth and change. Increasing school enrollment created a demand for more teachers and better facilities. This great number of people was more than our school could hold; every seat was filled in almost every class.

Between classes the rushing crowd in the halls was so large that students were constantly joking about it. This overcrowding made the dream of a new school a reality. Our new building will provide additional classrooms, a catetorium, gym, offices, and more parking facilities.

However, until this building could be finished, changes had to be made in the old one to accomodate the growing number of students: classes were enlarged, the student body was divided for assembly programs, and more rooms were provided for the overflow from the study hall.

It seemed to the students that the amount of homework had increased, too. Nevertheless, even with English paragraphs, chemistry experiments, and math problems, students had time to attend dances, plays, ball games, and dinners.

This growth was felt in clubs and sports in which more students participated than ever before. With so many activities, students had to choose their clubs and sports more carefully. Definitely this has been A YEAR OF GROWTH AND CHANGE AT J.H.S.

Dedication

It is an honor to pay tribute to one who is loved by her students both as a teacher and as a friend. Her interest in her students and her eagerness to help them have left a lasting impression on all who have had the privilege of knowing her.

Never has she been too busy to lend a helping hand to a struggling student or to encourage a disheartened one. She has overlooked students' carelessness and forgetfulness and patiently has guided them along the path of knowledge.

Unselfishly she has given of her time and energy to sponsor clubs and activities that have become the highlights of the school years. Although having done most of the work herself, she has modestly stepped into the background and has let the student receive the credit.

As the students depart on their separate ways and forget many of their high school experiences, this one patient, uncomplaining individual will always remain in their minds and hearts.

Because she means so much to us, the students of Jamestown High School dedicate the 1964 School Bell Echoes to Mrs. Agnes Luse.

Study Hall Uses Grow

Jim McManus makes use of his study hall period by looking for library books.

Being hall monitor is part of Lois Long's school day.

Mr. Michael and Carol Wise go over material in the counseling office during third hour study hall.

Chris Foltz gets information from student librarians Charlotte Putzey and Carol Sissom while Chuck Miller keeps an eye on the bookstore.

Activities – Many and Varied

Mr. Knepp brings Judy Maxwell closer to the character of "Bernadine."

Eastward Bound Seniors of '63.

The peppy Jazz Band provides entertainment for the audience between acts of the Junior Play.

"The Summons of Sariel" presented by Mrs. Heeter's ophomore English class.

Mr. Sheets presents Ron Moore with the free throw trophy for maintaining a percentage of 71.0.

Guest speaker Paul Hoffman points out the advantages of athletics in high school.

All Sports Banquet

Senior Bob Newcomer receives his scrapbook from Judy Maxwell, G.A.A. president.

Awards Day–Climax of the Year

Georgianna Smith is awarded by Mr. Gongwer for her outstanding work in Spanish.

Mrs. Luse gives Ralph Eggleston an award for two years of A work in Latin.

On behalf of the student body, Mike Swaine receives track trophies from Mike Kavas.

Janet Brenneman received a pin from Mrs. Luse for three years of straight A work in Latin.

Student Life in Full Swing

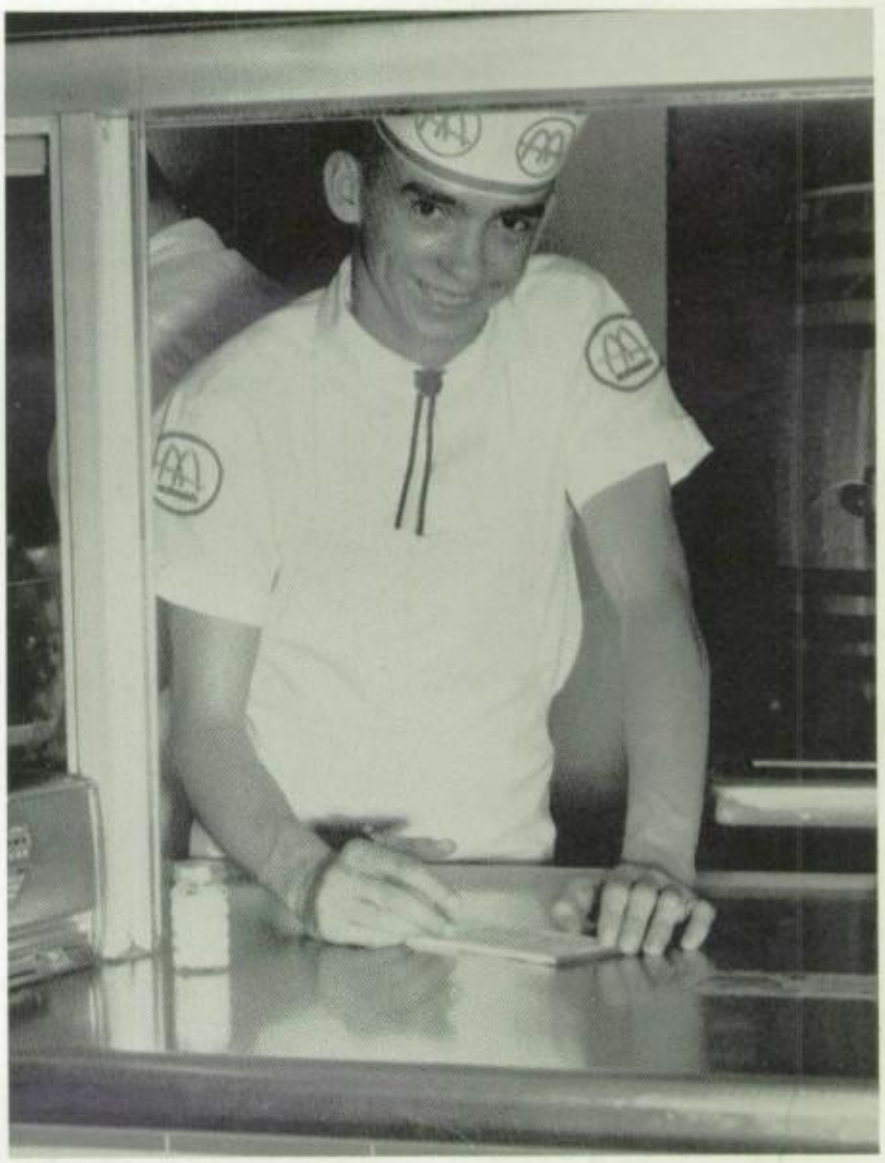
"Oh, boy! Barbecues today!"

"I thought this day would never end."

Hungry students, Beverly Horner, Marilyn Duckwall, and Mary Horner, buy lunch tokens from busy office assistants, Sheila Soard and Kay Miller.

Growing Number of Students Get Jobs

Marcia Campbell serves coffee to a member of the hospital auxiliary staff.



Melvin Frost takes orders with a smile.

Dennis Munson's ready smile greets all who go to Hook's.

Carol Bilger displays service with a smile.

Laughter Is Often Heard

Steve Heffner, Greg Parcell, and Craig H. Smith provide a rare glimpse of the varsity cheerleaders.

Our guest speaker has an unexpected visit during an assembly program.

Acad

A large increase in the number of students at Jimtown this year has brought on a need for more and different types of classes. A journalism class was added to the curriculum for the purpose of furthering students' interest in newspaper writing.

Cadet teachers were given a full credit this year for participating one semester in exploratory teaching. Developmental reading students also received a full credit for one semester's work.

Teaching methods have also changed somewhat. At Jimtown this year, teachers and students worked with one another to promote interest in many facets of learning.

Choir and Band Students Find

The choir spreads Christmas cheer to all who hear.

The Music Department at Jimtown is steadily increasing. Heads of the choirs and band this year are Mr. Lamar Holaway and Mr. Richard Gohn.

Students with musical abilities have the opportunity to exercise them in choir where they learn to get correct voice placement, to achieve good tone quality, and to enunciate clearly. This not only makes a student a better singer, but a better speaker.

Singing isn't all that students do, however. They learn the fundamentals of rhythm, timing, and note reading. Many different types of music broaden the pupils' musical horizons.

Mr. Holaway's junior high girls class displays great singing ability.

Outlet for Musical Abilities

Band gives students the opportunity to gain a greater appreciation of music while participating in performances during the year. Talents were displayed at home football and basketball games where they played at half-time.

The choirs and band combined provided wholesome entertainment for the school and the community throughout the year. Both organizations participated in the Christmas Concert, the County Music Festival in March, and the annual Spring Concert.

This year each organization held a banquet for members and their families. A carry-in supper was enjoyed, music was provided by each group, and awards were presented to Seniors and contest winners.

Mr. Gohn gives instrumental lessons to Jim Bogard, Larry Freeland, and Bruce Nifong.

The band practices to prepare for an approaching concert.

Physical Education Develops the Body

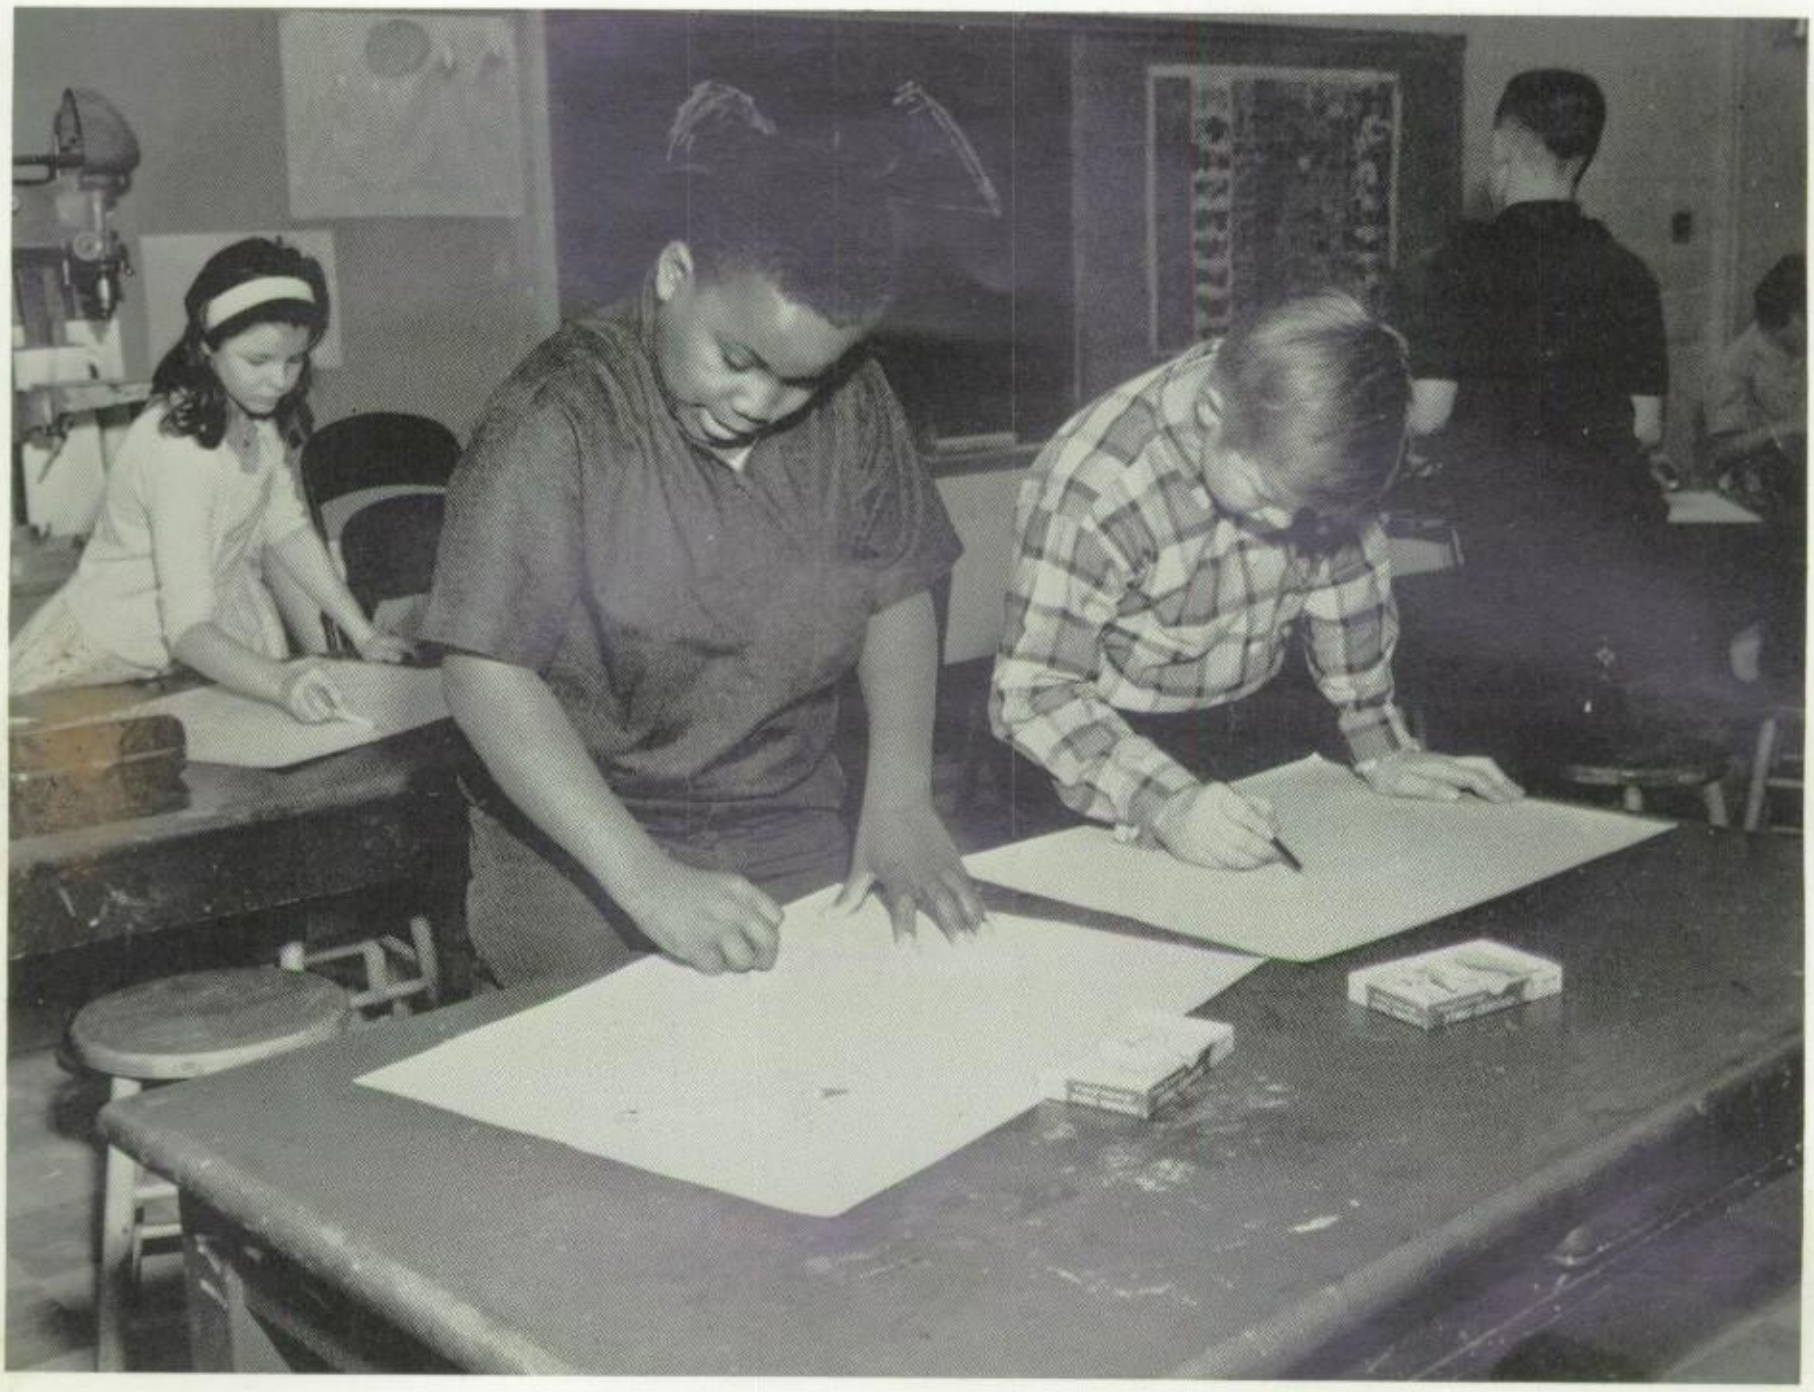
Early morning calisthenics prepare boys for the day's events.

Bruce Clark goes up and over.

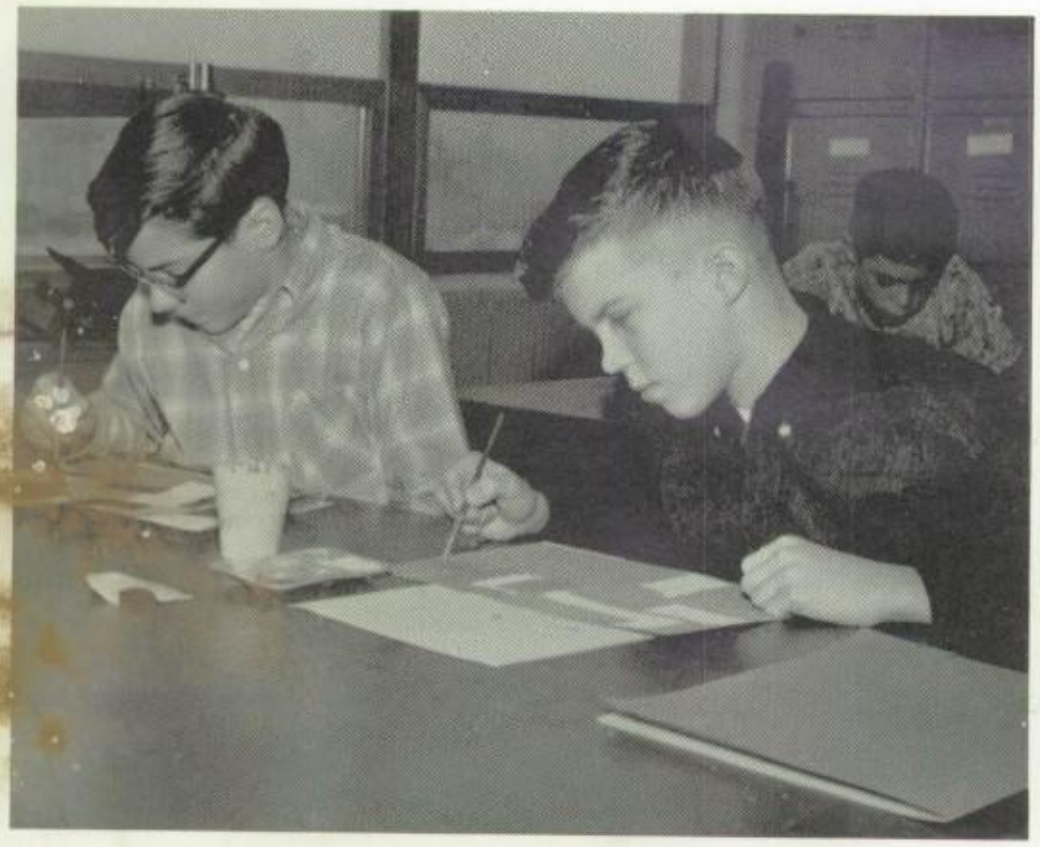
In the education of any student, it is important that the "whole" student be developed. The Physical Education Department firmly believes that it is necessary to develop the physical abilities of each student as well as the mental abilities. Under the direction of Mr. P. Barnes and Miss M. Baumgartner, the students have ample, supervised opportunity to develop their physical skills for the present and the future. The students are also taught the importance of good health habits.

The class periods consist mainly of calisthenics and drill on the fundamental moves of basketball, football, volleyball, and wrestling.

Art Develops Creative Talents



Nothing can distract Barry Heflick and Gary Herrli from their abstract designs.



Dorothy Crocker, Tommy Johnson, and Ray Edwards illustrate their creative ability.

During the first semester the high school art classes made a general survey of the history of art. The second semester the students did general drawing and painting, ceramics, and studied the techniques of several artists.

The junior high and elementary classes worked on paintings, drawing, free form sculpture, and plaster and concrete sculpture. They also did stitchery and made a wall hanging.

Mr. Wilson, head of the art department, feels that students express themselves the best when they can loosen up and feel free.

Science: The Subject of Tomorrow

John Campbell, Pearl Mann, Dennis Detwiler, Dan Hickerson, John Kindig, Steve Beck, and Arch Grafton test vibrations on an oscilloscope.

Science classes at Jimtown this year were taught by Mr. John Luse, Mr. Jacob Baker, Mr. Lloyd Hess, and Miss Mary Baumgartner. Mr. Luse taught Chemistry, Applied Science, and General Science. Mr. Baker (the only new teacher added to the Science Department this year) taught Physics. Mr. Hess taught Biology and General Science, and Miss Baumgartner taught Biology.

Students in Mr. Luse's Chemistry class enjoyed preparing 1, 2, diriboneucleic pentathalon (a chemical used in the blowing up of school buildings), and spilled roughly one billion dollars worth of chemicals.

In Physics class, students studied heat expansion, sound waves, electrons, protons, neutrons, and electricity; but mostly they debated with Mr. Baker.

Chuck Jennings, Claudia Onstott, Steve Heffner, and Bob Morehouse study illumination in physics class.

Is Much in Demand Today

Biology students collected grasshoppers, butterflies, mosquitoes, beetles, and other assorted insects for their insect collections. The two biology classes were taught by Mr. Hess and Miss Baumgartner.

Applied Science was taught by Mr. Luse. Students learned about everything from electroplating to atomic theory.

Students received a general introduction to biological and physical sciences in the eighth grade general science classes.

Because of the fact the biology was offered in summer school, students could this year work toward four years of high school science.

Joyce Standfield holds a poor little froggy as Fred Secor begins the delicate process of dissection.

Mr. Luse helps Madeline Erdelyi with a tricky experiment while other students forge on their own.

Our Commercial Department Develops

The first year typing class proves that busy fingers mean busy minds.

Office practice students, Donna Sheaf, Steve Knight, and Judy Maxwell, give the school paper a final proofreading.

The business department at Jimtown is taught by two instructors. They are Mr. Bradford McIntosh and Mr. Gene Skirvin.

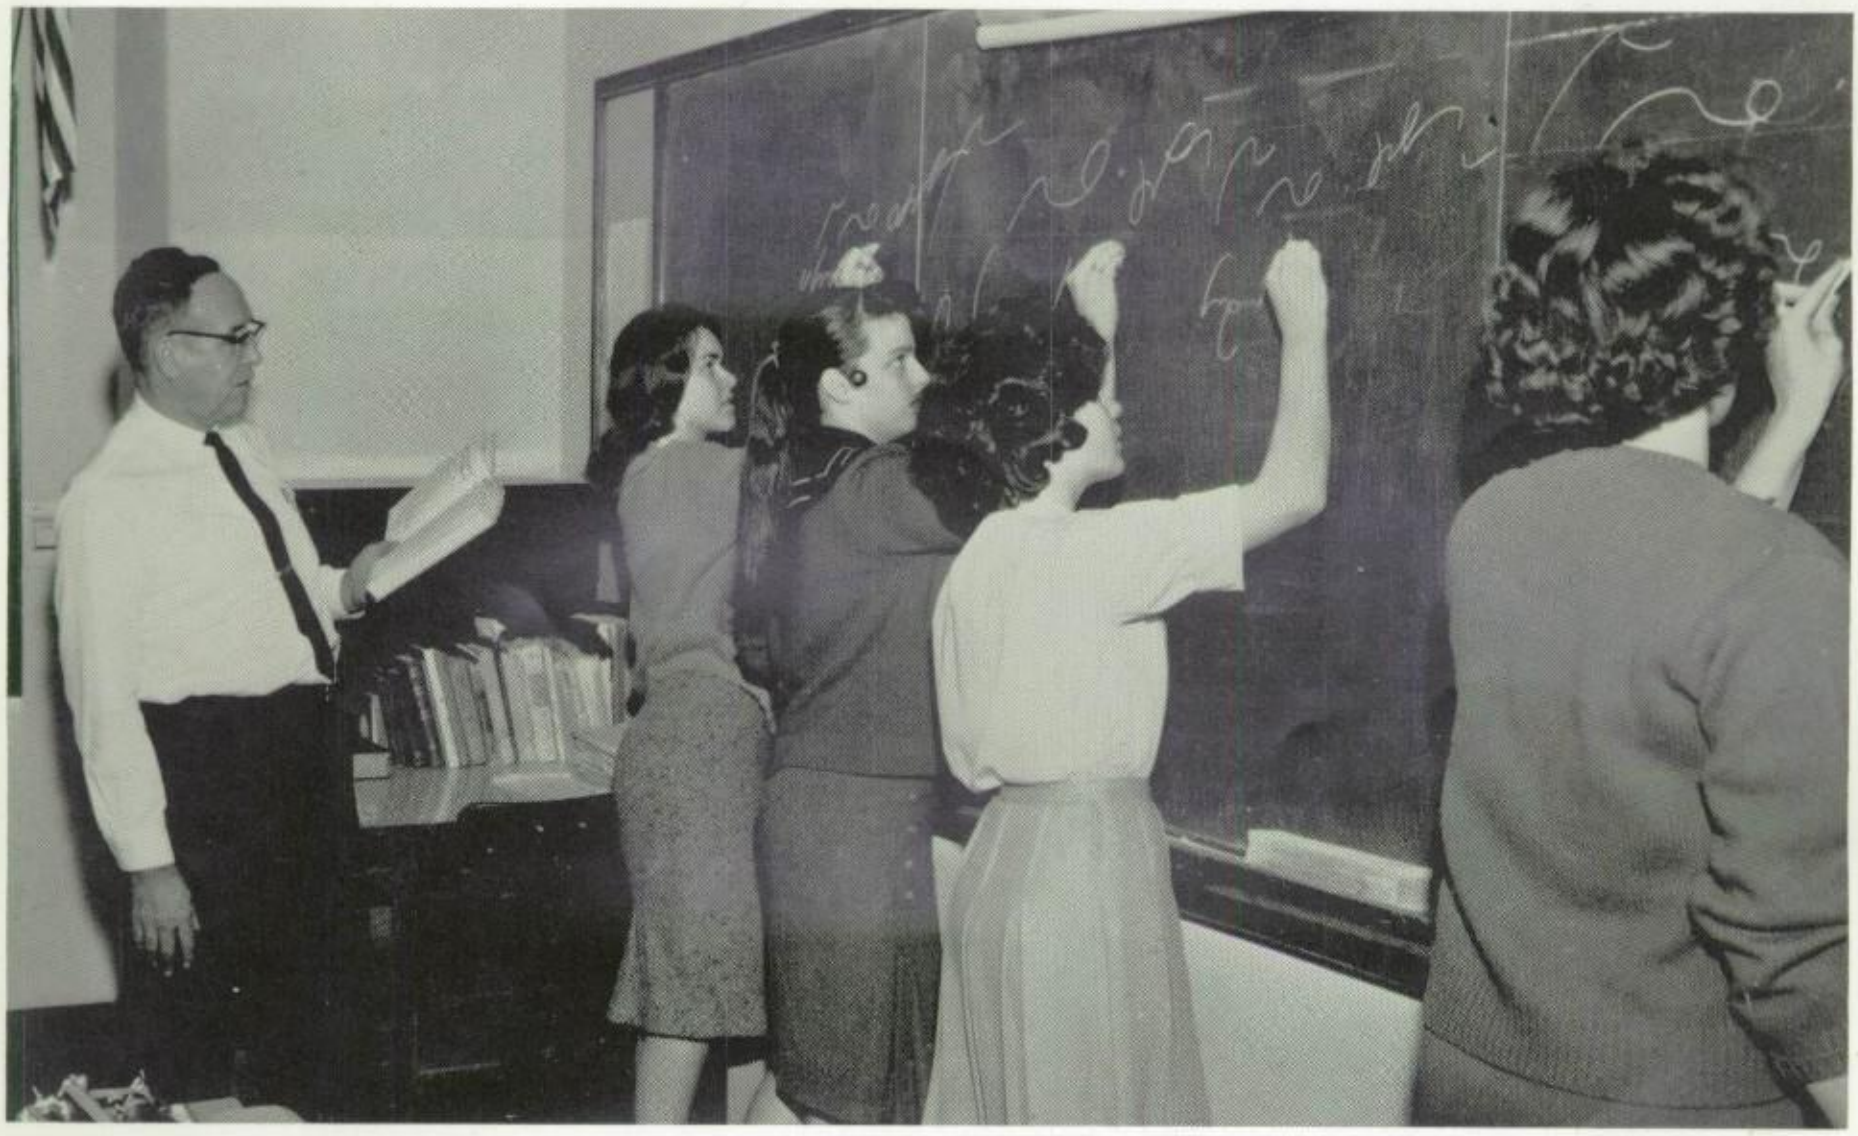
Mr. McIntosh teaches Shorthand I and II, Typing I, and Office Practice (which consists of filing, office machines and second year typing).

Mr. Skirvin teaches the General Business, Typing I, and Bookkeeping courses.

General Business is a Sophomore course, Typing I and Shorthand I are Junior courses, Office Practice, Shorthand, and Bookkeeping are all given in the Senior year.

Business courses graduate up at the different year levels. The students are then prepared to go out into the business world in such positions as: Bookkeepers, General Clerical workers, Typists, Stenographers, File Clerks, and many other associated jobs. Yet, the courses may be a preparation for future study after graduation. The commercial courses at Jimtown offer adequate preparation for the interesting and intriguing field of business.

Secretaries and Businessmen of Tomorrow



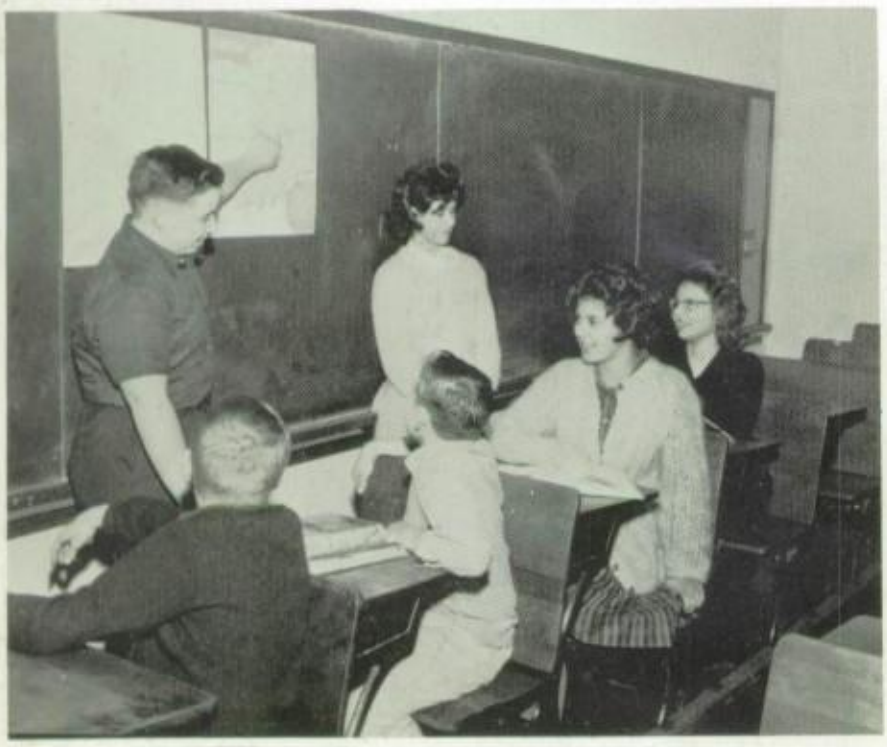
Mr. McIntosh dictates a letter to his Shorthand I Class. Sheila Soard, Louella Smith, Sandy Teige, and Marcia Campbell begin the letter with Dear Mr. Gray.

Janet Kinder concentrates as she tries to prove her debits and credits.

Working on stencils is part of Vickie Gentzhorn's and Carol Billger's share of work in the office practice class.

History – An Ongoing Process

Mr. Martin gets an enthusiastic response from his history class.



Steve Beck points out the Indiana state capital to Raymond Saunders, Stan Rouch, Linda Rymer, Cindy Erdelyi, and Connie Tucker.

The Social Studies Department starts with a few courses in junior high school and then develops into a broader program in high school. These courses are designed to enable the student to study the past, know the present, and prepare for the future in one steady flow of learning.

In junior high, Mr. Collins and Mr. Secor teach geography, and Indiana history. Mr. Knepp and Mr. Martin instruct high school students in Civics, World History, U. S. History, Economics, Government, and Sociology.

Anglo-Castilian Bi-Linguists Study

The Spanish Department tries to give its students a well-rounded knowledge of the Spanish language and Spanish customs. Students learn to speak the language with a high degree of fluency which eliminates the old-time drudgery of translating sentences on paper. Many speeches are given in the classes; these speeches encourage the students to speak the language with genuine expression.

Fundamentals of the language are learned in the day-by-day usage of it. As the words are spoken in their correct forms and in their natural idioms, a knowledge of the rules of grammar is automatically acquired.

Paula Harrison, Pam Teige, Fred Mohr, and Richard Sukolics read quietly while Mr. Carl Gongwer is ready to answer any questions.

John Fortner, Bob Moorehouse, Gaylon Davis, and Linda Posey receive practice in Spanish conversation from Sue Testo.

An Old Language Is the Foundation

Mrs. Luse points out Cisalpine Gaul to her second year class.

Richard Burke poses as teacher and illustrates the relationship of Latin to English to his fellow classmates.

The three levels of Latin at Jimtown are all under the direction of Mrs. Agnes Luse. She stresses that her students: (1) master the fundamentals of the language—vocabulary, grammar, sentence structure, and pronunciation by daily blackboard drills; (2) develop skill in reading, comprehending and translating Latin into English and English into Latin by reading Caesar and Cicero; (3) increase their knowledge of the English language through the study of derivatives, prefixes, and suffixes; (4) develop an appreciation and understanding of the historical and cultural background of another civilization by studying the lives, customs, and cultural contributions of the Roman people and noting the application of these in the modern world.

To increase the interest and variety of her classes, Mrs. Luse has her students make Latin scrapbooks and valentines. Latin card games are used to increase the knowledge of vocabulary, verb forms, and grammar.

for the Language We Now Speak

Steve Heffner tells the Junior English Class that he jist hain't able to understand the stuff nohow!

"Give me a student who reads . . ."

In addition to learning correct grammar, English students learn to be selective about their reading, learn to write themes, do research work, and build their reading rates.

English cannot be confined to one department. Its influence can be seen in other classes. For instance, in shorthand words must be spelled correctly, and the term papers for Exploratory Teaching cannot have grammar mistakes.

This year Mrs. Healy taught senior speech and composition and sophomore English and literature. To freshmen, she also taught developmental reading which helped the students to read faster and with better comprehension. Mr. Martin was in charge of the senior literature class, and Mr. Gerber held classes in English and literature for the juniors. Miss Griffith taught freshman English, and Mrs. Slessman, sophomore English.

Industrial Arts Prepares Tomorrow's Wage Earner

Mr. Dan Reader, Mr. Gene Shike and Mr. Robert Michaels head the Industrial Arts Department here at Jimtown. The purpose of the industrial education program at J.H.S. is to familiarize the student with industrial organizations and processes, and to give him a greater opportunity to enter industry.

In eighth grade the students are offered a one year course in blue-print reading. Available to freshmen is a general shop course, which offers work in power and transportation machine shop, wood shop, electrical shop, sheet metal, and light construction.

Intermediate drafting is offered to sophomores and to juniors and seniors.

Leonard Ferguson and Jim McManus put the finishing touches on their semester project.

DeWayne Russell works on the metal bandsaw.

Home Economics Prepares Tomorrow's Homemaker

Home economics offers basic training to educate the girl for family living. Its concern is with these aspects of family living:

Family relationships and child development,
Home care of the sick and first aid,
Nutritional needs and the selection, preparation, and serving of foods,
Design, selection, construction, and care of clothing,
Housing for the family and equipment and furnishings for the household,
Management in the use of time, energy, and resources.

Colleen Hamlin assures Darlene Yoder that her sleeve is the right length.

Donna Fortner serves toast to her guests, Harriet Meyers, Angela Meyer and Carol Fawley.

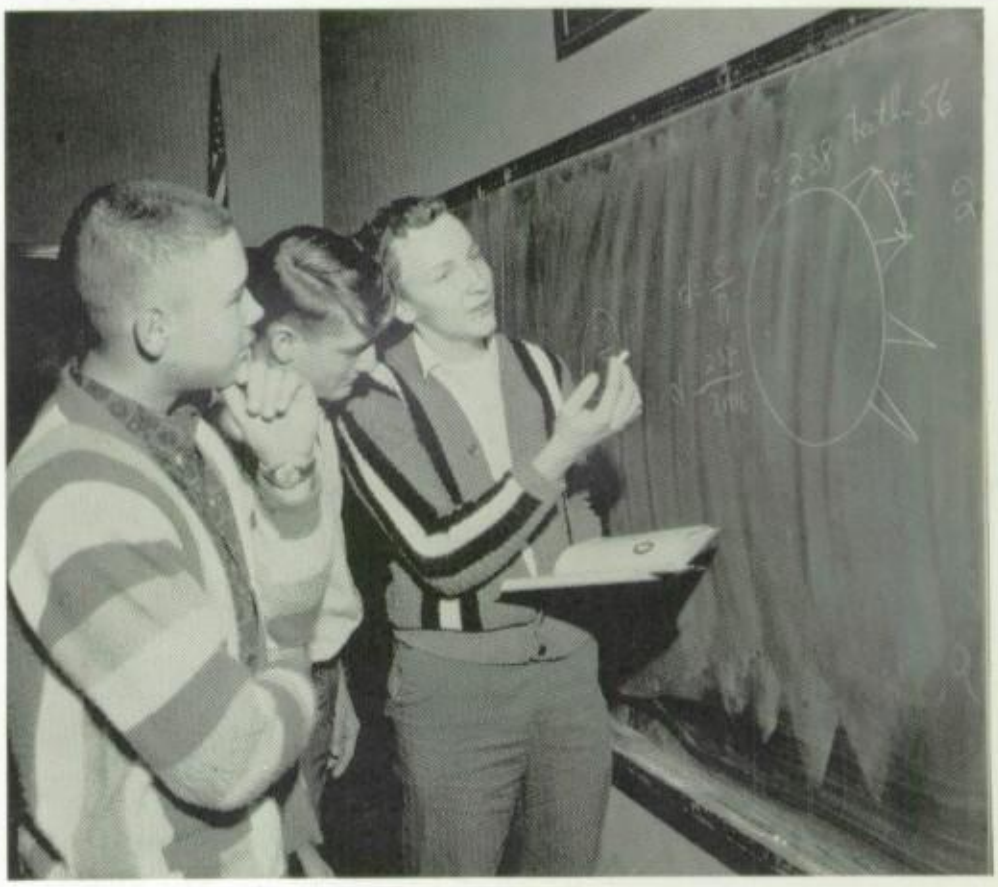
Math Provides a Challenge in Thinking

Math is one of the most important and interesting courses a student could study. Not only is there ample opportunity for each phase of math to be learned here at Jimtown; but we also have the best teachers to help us.

When a student enters High School, he can eagerly look forward to taking such delightful math courses as: Algebra I, II, III, and IV, Geometry, Advanced Math, Shop Math, and General Math.

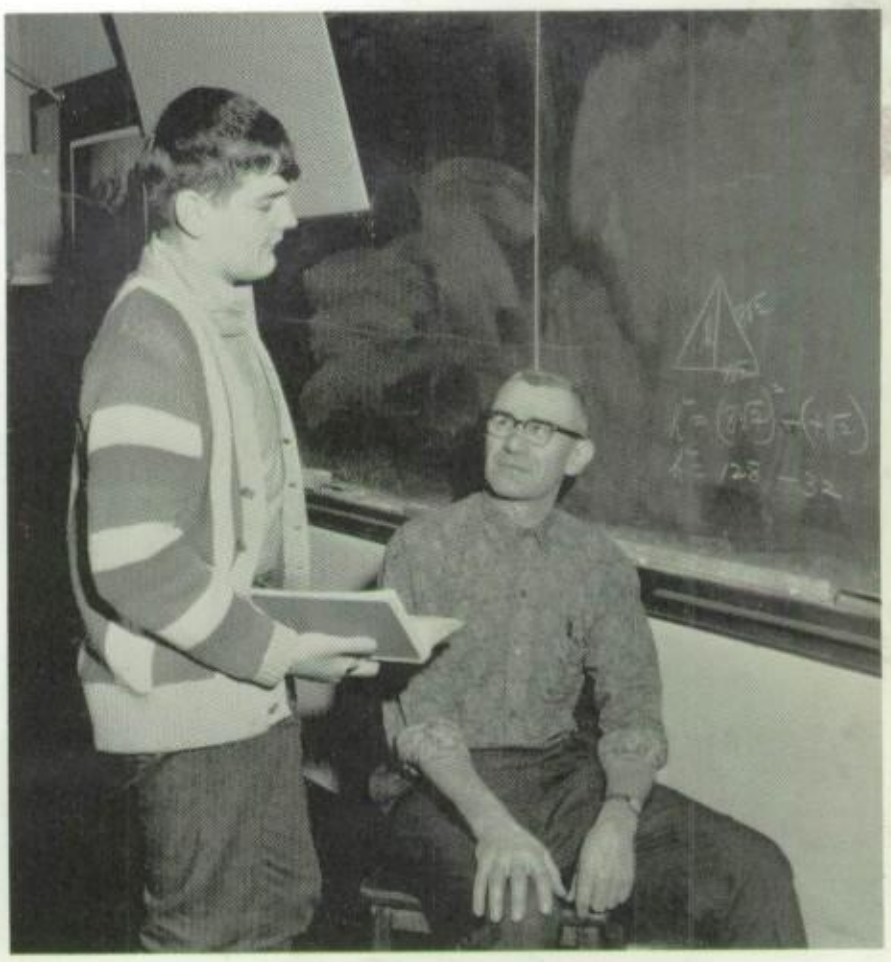
The teachers responsible for the presentation and teaching of these courses are: Mr. Arthur Knepp, Mr. Wayne Cook, Mr. Jacob Baker, and Mrs. Waterman.

These teachers have become acquainted with the many different methods in order to present the course in a way that each student will have an equal opportunity to grasp all that is being given. Each student at Jimtown has an adequate opportunity to learn the necessary fundamentals of math if he so desires.



Richard Sheaf explains to fellow students Steve Warrick and Terry Colepetzer that "The square root of a hippopotamus in a right triangle is a wrong triangle."

Senior Math students solve problems by: slide rule (Ron), Ron's paper (Bob), and looking it up in the back of the book (Chuck).



"So 'H' = 128-32, and . . . Wake up, Craig!"

Journalists in the Making

Sandy Mossey and Joyce Stanfield examine the fruits of their labors.

A special class, the Journalism Class, has been added to our curriculum this year. Sophomores who had worked on the school paper last year and those Freshmen and Juniors wishing further training in writing were eligible to join the class. The class is in charge of the school paper and has the responsibility of placing articles on the High School Page in the South Bend Tribune. Under the direction of Miss Mary Griffith, the Journalism Class works to better its writing habits.

For one six-weeks grading period, Miss Griffith had each one in her class make up a school paper of his own. Each student had to write interesting articles that were grammatically correct to place in his paper.

Journalism students receive invaluable experience and training in the art of writing.

The school paper is quickly assembled by journalism class.

Activ

ties

Extracurricular activities is another area affected by Jimtown's increased enrollment and the addition of new teachers.

This year three new and interesting clubs were added to Jimtown's list of varied activities.

The Spanish Club promotes interest in the customs and language of the Spanish people; the Math and Science club stimulates interest in scientific study; and the art club lets students demonstrate their artistic talents.

These and the other activities give Jimtown students an opportunity to develop creative ability, to practice good citizenship and democracy, to prepare for the future, and to give service to others.

Yearbook Staff Means Yearlong Work

Janet Brenneman and Mr. D. Gerber discuss yearbook lay-outs.

"There will be time, there will be time!" No, for the Yearbook Staff there is never time; only time for tearing hair, meeting deadlines, racking brains, and typing copy. Producing a yearbook is a race against time. Often it is a losing race. Creativity is not forced, but spontaneous—deadlines are forced and not spontaneous. A call for creativity against a deadline can only result in temporary insanity.

Yearbook work can also mean satisfaction—the satisfaction from a job well done, and the satisfaction of knowing that the best work has been done. The deepest satisfaction finally comes in knowing that the book is finished and the hard work is now history. Once again the brain returns to normal, sanity returns, and all is serene.

Judy Maxwell Is 1964 Yearbook Queen

Judy Maxwell, 1964 School Bell Echoes Queen, and her escort, Mike Swaine.

Judy Maxwell is crowned by retiring queen, Donna Hibschman.

On the evening of January 31st, eight senior girls competed for the title of 1964 Yearbook Queen. The judges were Miss LuAnn Adams and Mr. Carl Wilson, Jimtown teachers, and Miss Pamela Michne, a teacher from Wakarusa. They chose Judy Maxwell as Queen and Dianne Hartman as Senior runnerup. The attendants in Judy's court were Carol Kentner, junior; Sandy Mossey, sophomore; and Sherry Burke, freshman.

The Girls' Athletic Association has been set up to provide opportunities for the girls at Jimtown to participate in athletic events. G.A.A. basketball, volleyball, and track teams played a limited number of games with other schools. Two bowling leagues within the G.A.A. provided the girls with spirited competition one night each week. Under the sponsorship of Miss Baumgartner, G.A.A. has enjoyed an increased popularity among the students.

The F.H.A.'s many activities began this year with a "galloping" supper at which every dish was made with apples.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Christofeno, aided by Mrs. Lowell Sheets and Mrs. Paul Hunsberger, the Chapter Mothers, the club entertained Nappanee at a Hawaiian Luau, had a Christmas party and gift exchange, and met a foreign exchange student from Austria.

The club's theme for the year was "Your Home—A Key to the Future." Panel discussions, skits, guest speakers, and films were based on this theme.

Officers were Roxanna Hunsberger, President, also District Vice-President; Marsha Johnson, Vice-President; Judy Maxwell, Secretary; and Glenda Moyer, Treasurer.

Teaching – A Bird's Eye View

Though Exploratory Teaching has functioned at Jimtown High School for the past three years, this past year was the first year that it has been offered on a credit basis.

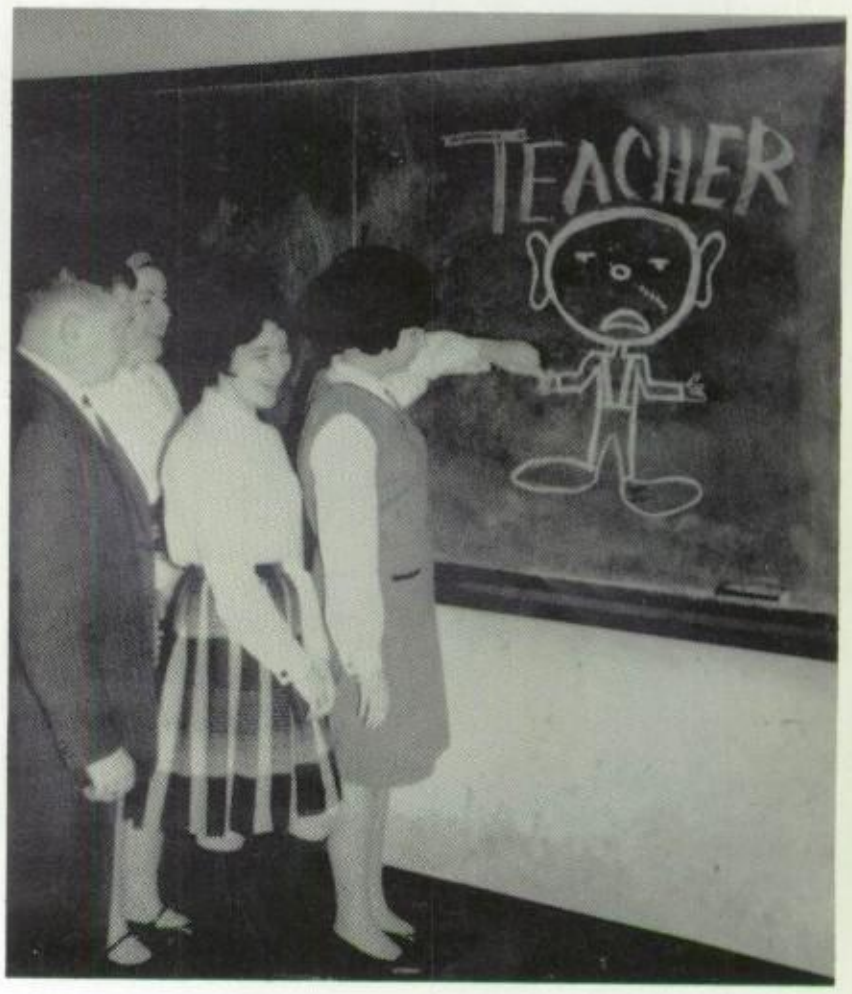
The course is offered to interested students who have maintained a scholastic average of a C during the second semester of their senior year. The cadets have a total of 5 hours of work per week: 2 hours as a class and 3 hours in an elementary classroom assisting the teacher and gaining experience.

Sally Reid supervises her charges.

Look Out, Faculty, Here We Come

Future Teachers of America plays an important part in the development of new teachers. Our Jimtown chapter has become very active under the sponsorship of Mr. Bruce L. Martin, a member of the faculty. The local Jimtown chapter tries to help members by attending State Conventions and Area Workshops, by going on field trips to colleges, and by doing special work at school during such times as National Education Week.

There are now seventeen members of F.T.A., including two sophomores, nine juniors, and six seniors. The main qualification for membership is that new members must have at least a "C" average in all subjects. Senior members do classroom teaching with the elementary and junior high teachers during their second semester in a program called Exploratory Teaching.



Mr. Martin, Judy Haynes, Ann Freeland, and Sally Reid consider the ideal teacher.

Sweaters Galore

Mr. McIntosh takes lessons in the fine art of knitting.

Knitting Club consists of student librarians; also, others are included who have the free time and initiative. They meet on Tuesdays and Fridays during activities period. Under the instruction of Mrs. Healy they are given projects and new stitches to learn.

Bookworming Permitted

Nadine Glotzback and Evelyn Riley find room for magazines on the top of the bookshelf.

The school librarians take one study hall hour out of their school day to help students use the library, put return books back on the shelf, distribute magazines, keep all library shelves neat and dusted.

The head librarian, Mrs. Healey, is assisted by Mrs. Reader. Mrs. Reader is a new teacher at Jimtown this year.

Although the librarians will testify that the job entails much work and involves a lot of responsibility, they will also agree that they had fun raising money for parties and activities by selling angora.

Stitch and Chatter Makes Best Better

Standing, l-r: Kathy Bradley, Becky Dawson, Sue Weaver, Ruthan Stickel, Kathy Moyer, Diana Buss, Marcia Clark, Jeanne Staker, Glenda Moyer, Mrs. Christofeno, Barbara Clark.

Judy Maxwell is busily pressing her 4-H project.

The 4-H Club was established to teach responsible teenagers some of the duties which are necessary for their immediate future. The club meets during the summer months and ends its term shortly after school starts in the fall. It starts its new year just before school ends in the spring.

Mrs. Christofeno is the sponsor for the older girls club, Stitch and Chatter. She is at the school a great part of her time, during the summer, to help the girls with their projects if necessary.

At the end of the 4-H year the projects are judged and the girls receive their awards accordingly.

Racket Squad leads team with color cards.

Forty J.H.S. girls, brimming with energy and school spirit, made up this year's racket squad. Under the witty direction of Miss Bumgartner and Miss Griffith, the squad used shakers and color cards to boost school cheering.

The squad also sold Jimmy key chains to meet expenses and to finance bus trips to several away games. The squad was greatly appreciated by the team for its spirit and support.

Operators Show Films

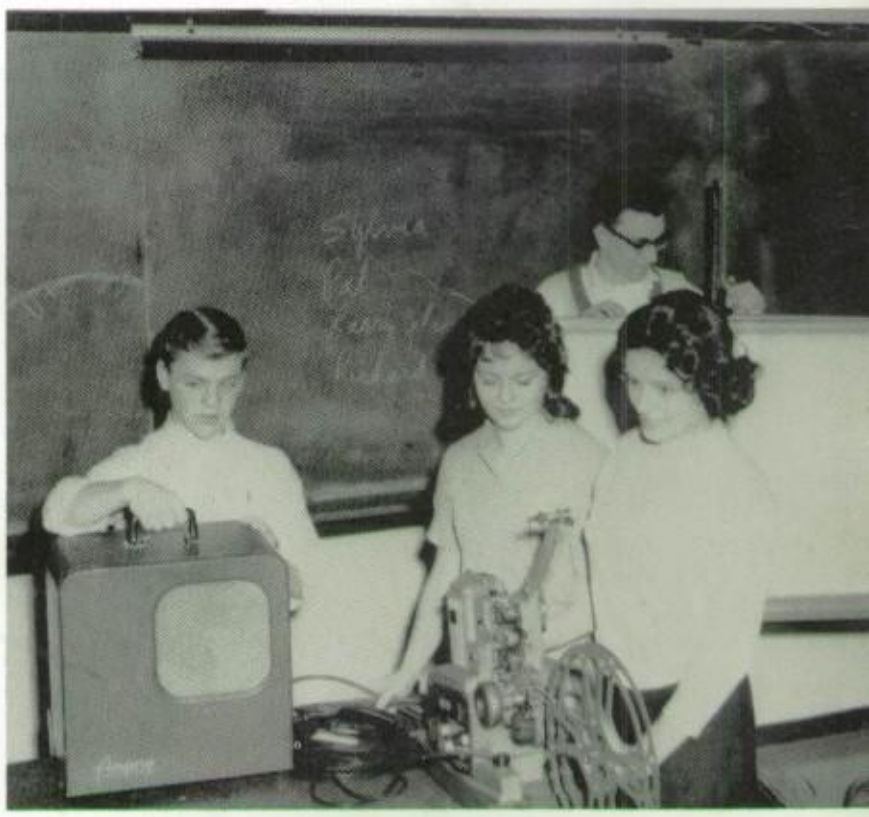
Formerly called the Projection Club, the Operators Club had its largest membership this year with the sponsorship of Mr. Collins. It was active in assisting teachers in setting up projection equipment and sound apparatus.

Projectionists operate the equipment during their free periods.

Recently new projectors were added causing increased interest in the organization.



Larry Jiles, Pat Meredeith, Richard Burke, Sylvia Warner demonstrate how to use projection equipment.

This year a new club has been created specifically for the athletic set, the Varsity Club.

The Varsity Club consists of those high school boys who have actively participated in sports during the school year. To be a prospective member of the organization, a boy must have won a letter in either track, basketball, football, or baseball.

Sponsors for the club, Mr. Shike and Mr. Luse, along with other members, planned many activities. Several dances, car washes, cake raffles, and other profit making activities have made the club very successful. Much credit is due these boys for the formation of this club.

Varsity Club members Dennis Molebash, Wayne Yoder, Bill Fletcher, Dennis Stump sell hats as a money making project to David Fortner, Gloria Fries, Vicky Fletcher.

Character, leadership, scholarship, or service? Which eternal flame, symbolizing the National Honor Society, did each of these members choose as his characteristic to live by? Or did he choose them all?

The Jamestown Chapter of the National Honor Society has two inductions for membership. One is held in the fall, in accordance with the National Education Week, and the other is held in the spring. At each induction several students, who maintain a B average for two semesters and are voted on by a faculty committee, take a pledge to always live up to the standards of this organization.

Mr. Arthur Knepp is the Honor Society Sponsor. The officers are Kathy Grimes . . . President; Carol Kentner . . . Secretary; Ralph Eggleston . . . Treasurer; and Sue Amt . . . Vice-President.

Sue Amt, Sharon Reed, and Carol Kentner discuss plans for the induction ceremony of new members.

The purpose of the Jimtown Student Council is "to develop attitudes of, and practice in, good citizenship; promote harmonious relations throughout the entire school; provide a forum for student expression; and promote the general welfare of the school.

As in years before, the Council decorated the Christmas tree, ushered at assemblies, and planned the convocations for the next year.

Under the leadership of President Mike Swaine and with the support of Loren Weaver, Vice-Pres.; Madeline Erdelyi, Sec.-Treas.; and Bob Newcomer, Sergeant-at-Arms, the Student Council's main project this year was laying the foundation for our future foreign exchange student program.

To promote interest in school government, the council held a mock student council meeting and also posted the minutes of its meetings.

The Spanish Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. Gongwer, is in its initial year. The club meets monthly, and all members join in advancing their knowledge of the Spanish language and customs.

The big event of the year is the Spanish Fiesta. Spanish foods are served, Spanish g a m e s are played, and the pinata is broken.

The pinata is a piece of pottery which is filled with toys and candy, and hung from the ceiling. Children with sticks poke the pinata and, when it falls to the floor, scramble for the gifts.

Janet Rowland, Ann Freeland, Darryl Schott, Tom Sims, John Fortner, Galen Davis, and Georgianna Smith examine merchandise at a Mexican vendor's stand.

Carol Wise and Sue Weaver explain the Roman way to Sue Testo and Judy Haynes.

The Latin Club, sponsored by Mrs. Luse, had its largest membership this year. The fifty-five members composed the four classes of Roman people: Senators, Equites, Plebs, and Slaves.

Activities included the presentation of skits relating to certain holidays, the singing of songs in Latin, and playing of Latin games.

At the annual Latin banquet, all enjoyed a full-course meal served as the Romans would have served a formal dinner.

Freya Helenburg and Ronda Robison work with clay as Leonard Ferguson looks on.

This year an art club was formed at Jimtown High School under the direction of Mr. Carl Wilson. The club's membership consisted of thirty-seven students in grades nine through twelve.

The organization held meetings on the first Tuesday of every month. Sometimes the artists watched films about art, or worked with painting and sculpturing. They also molded, baked, glazed, and painted clay figurines.

The art club's first year was most successful, and the members hope to have another good season throughout 1964 and 1965.

After years without any organization to stimulate interest in Mathematics and Science, the Echoes of Einstein was formed in the fall of 1963. At an early meeting of the club, officers were elected and the name of the club was chosen. A constitution was approved.

The club met bi-weekly on Fridays and had special after-school meetings twice a month for demonstrations, films, experiments, and lectures.

Under the guidance of Mr. Baker, the club looks forward to as rewarding an experience next year as it had this year.

The seventy-eight member choir was directed by C. LaMar Holaway. Along with the usual choir dates for Teacher's Institute, District and State Choir Contests, and the Spring Concert, the choir had three extra important dates.

The first of these dates was the choir banquet held on November 2. At the banquet awards were given to seventeen senior members.

The other two performances were televised on WSBT-TV. The first of these was the December 17 appearance on the Afternoon Show. The second and most exciting was on December 25 from 8-8:30 P.M.

Absent: Richard Alexander, Roger Butts, Larry Fults, Mary Lou Horner, Tom Kirby, David Stevens.

"A credit to old Jimtown is Mr. Gohn's band!" This is the attitude of all Jimtown students toward our school band. Under the direction of Mr. Richard Gohn, the band has shown its excellence at various school activities. On November 19, 1963, the band held a Fall Band Concert in the gym. The band performed at the Christmas Concert, Spring Band Concert, and Commencement Exercises.

The Stage Band is also under the direction of Mr. Gohn. This special band played at home games during the football season. It also provided entertainment at P.T.A. meetings. The Stage Band appeared in the Lion's Club Showboat, and performed on television in April. We sincerely hope that this fine band continues to play at school programs for many years.

The high school Y.F.C. Quiz Team consists of Janet McLain, Janet Moss, Dale Hunsberger, Anita Moore, Esther Dancler, and John Sissom.

Y.F.C. stands for "Youth for Christ." The chief purpose of the club is to win young people to become followers of Christ. The club also offers the opportunity for Christian young people to identify themselves with other Christian young people and thus to carry on activities which promote spiritual growth.

The main activity of Y.F.C. was the organization of a quiz team which participated in quizzes with other quiz teams in the county. The team emphasized a better acquaintance with the Bible which is the means to spiritual growth.

The Y.F.C. has grown in influence among the student body, and its continued growth is sincerely desired by the Y.F.C. members.

Upperclassmen Take an Old Fashioned Walk

A break between dances finds Carol Wise and Larry Inman, Lamont Corne and Jean Standfield, and Pat Jones and Ron Longbrake having an informal chat.

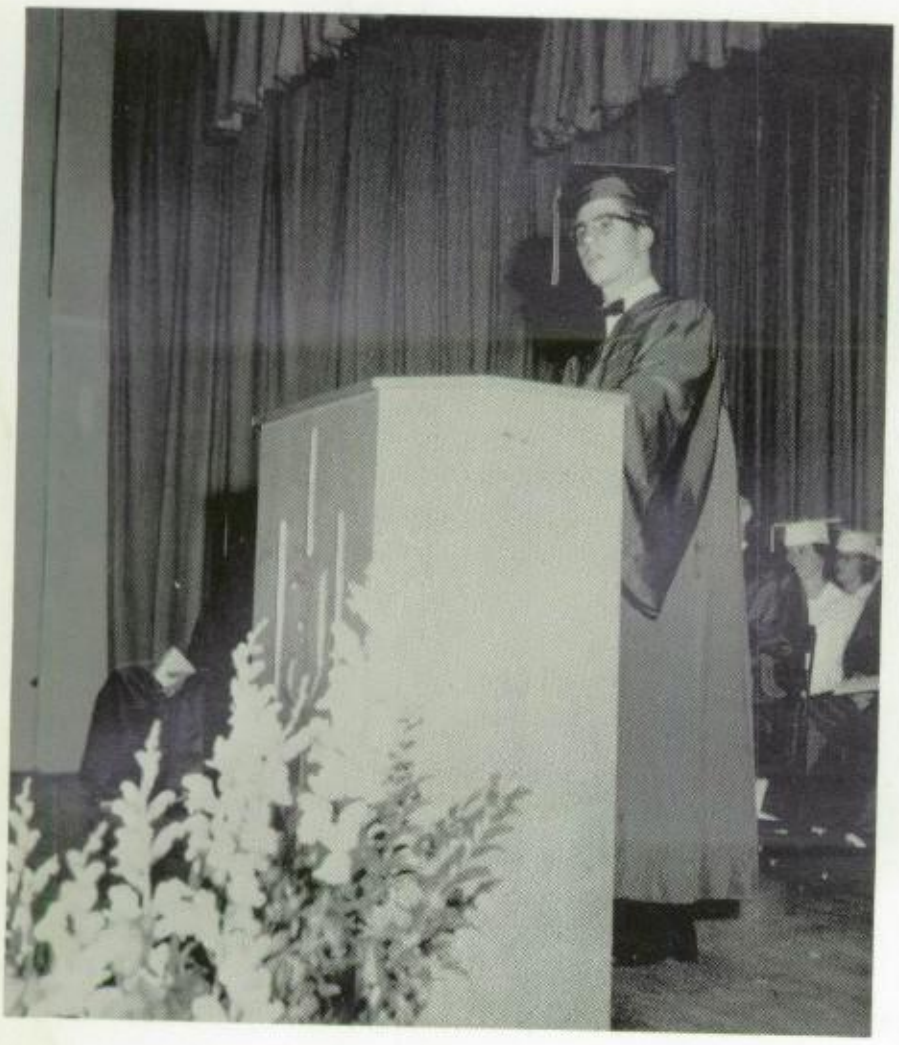
Students and faculty take time to stop at the punch bowl.

"An Old Fashioned Walk" was the theme for the 1963 Junior-Senior Prom. Held in the Empire and Town and Country rooms of the Elkhart Hotel, the couples danced to the strains of the "Holidays." Lovely Donna Hibschman and handsome Rich Brewer reigned as queen and king over the Prom.

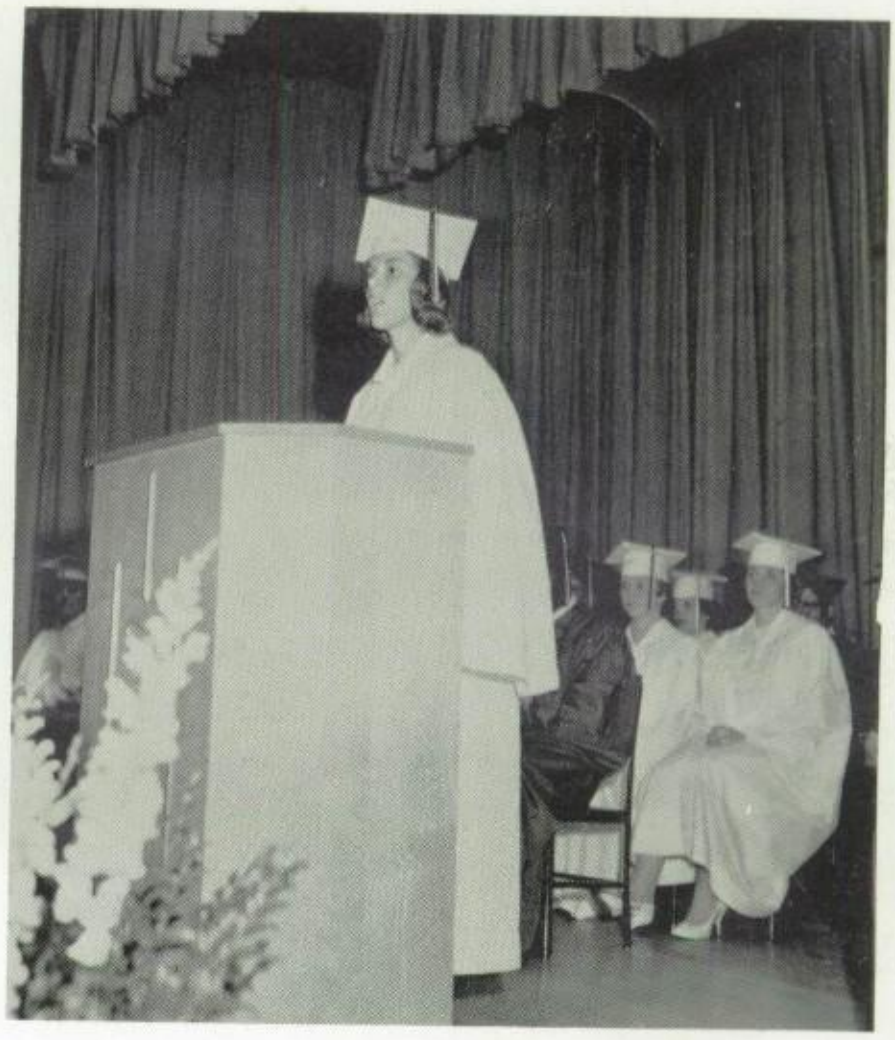
This was the first year that the Juniors and Seniors enjoyed an all-night prom. Following the dance at the Hotel, the couples went to the State Theatre in Elkhart to see Debbie Reynolds in a delightful comedy, "My Six Loves," and finally, everyone came back to the school gym at 3:00 a.m. for a delicious breakfast prepared and served by mothers of Junior class members.

"They danced as the band played on."

Graduates Look Toward New Horizons



Vaughn Heflick delivers the Valedictorian Address.



Sue Seltenright delivers the Salutatorian Address.

Baccalaureate exercises for the class of 1963 were held on May 19, 1963. Reverend James R. Phenegar, gave the Baccalaureate Address.

On May 22, the fifty-one seniors of the class of '63 solemnly marched to the stage for the graduation exercises. Reverend Glenn Stauffer opened the ceremonies by giving the invocation after which Sue Seltenright delivered the Salutatorian Address.

The guest speaker was Reverend John M. Kirkpatrick of Fort Wayne. He gave the Commencement Address entitled "Outward Bound." With his words still echoing in their ears, the seniors watched as their classmates received the American Legion Awards from Dallas Meyers, special awards by Mr. McIntosh, and scholarship awards by Mr. Galloway.

Diplomas were presented by Superintendent Lowell Sheets and Vaughn Heflick gave the Valedictorian Address.

Seniors step out into the future.

Under the direction of Mr. Arthur Knepp, the Senior Class of '64 presented its version of a three-act comedy.

The action took place in the living room of the Foster home. The time was the present and the month was May.

Sally Foster was the girl who had only hidden "boy appeal" at the beginning of the play. Her girlfriend, Ginger Benson, is determined to change Sally into a beautiful, flattering, girl who would attract all of the boys but one in particular, Jack Nelson.

Sally's mother invites her wealthy former school chum, Charlotte Hepplewhite, to visit her. Along with Charlotte comes her daughter, Melinda, who is considered the belle of Georgia.

Melinda feels as if she should have the attention of everyone, including the boys. This disturbs the other girls to the extent that everything turns out to be one, big rollicking time.

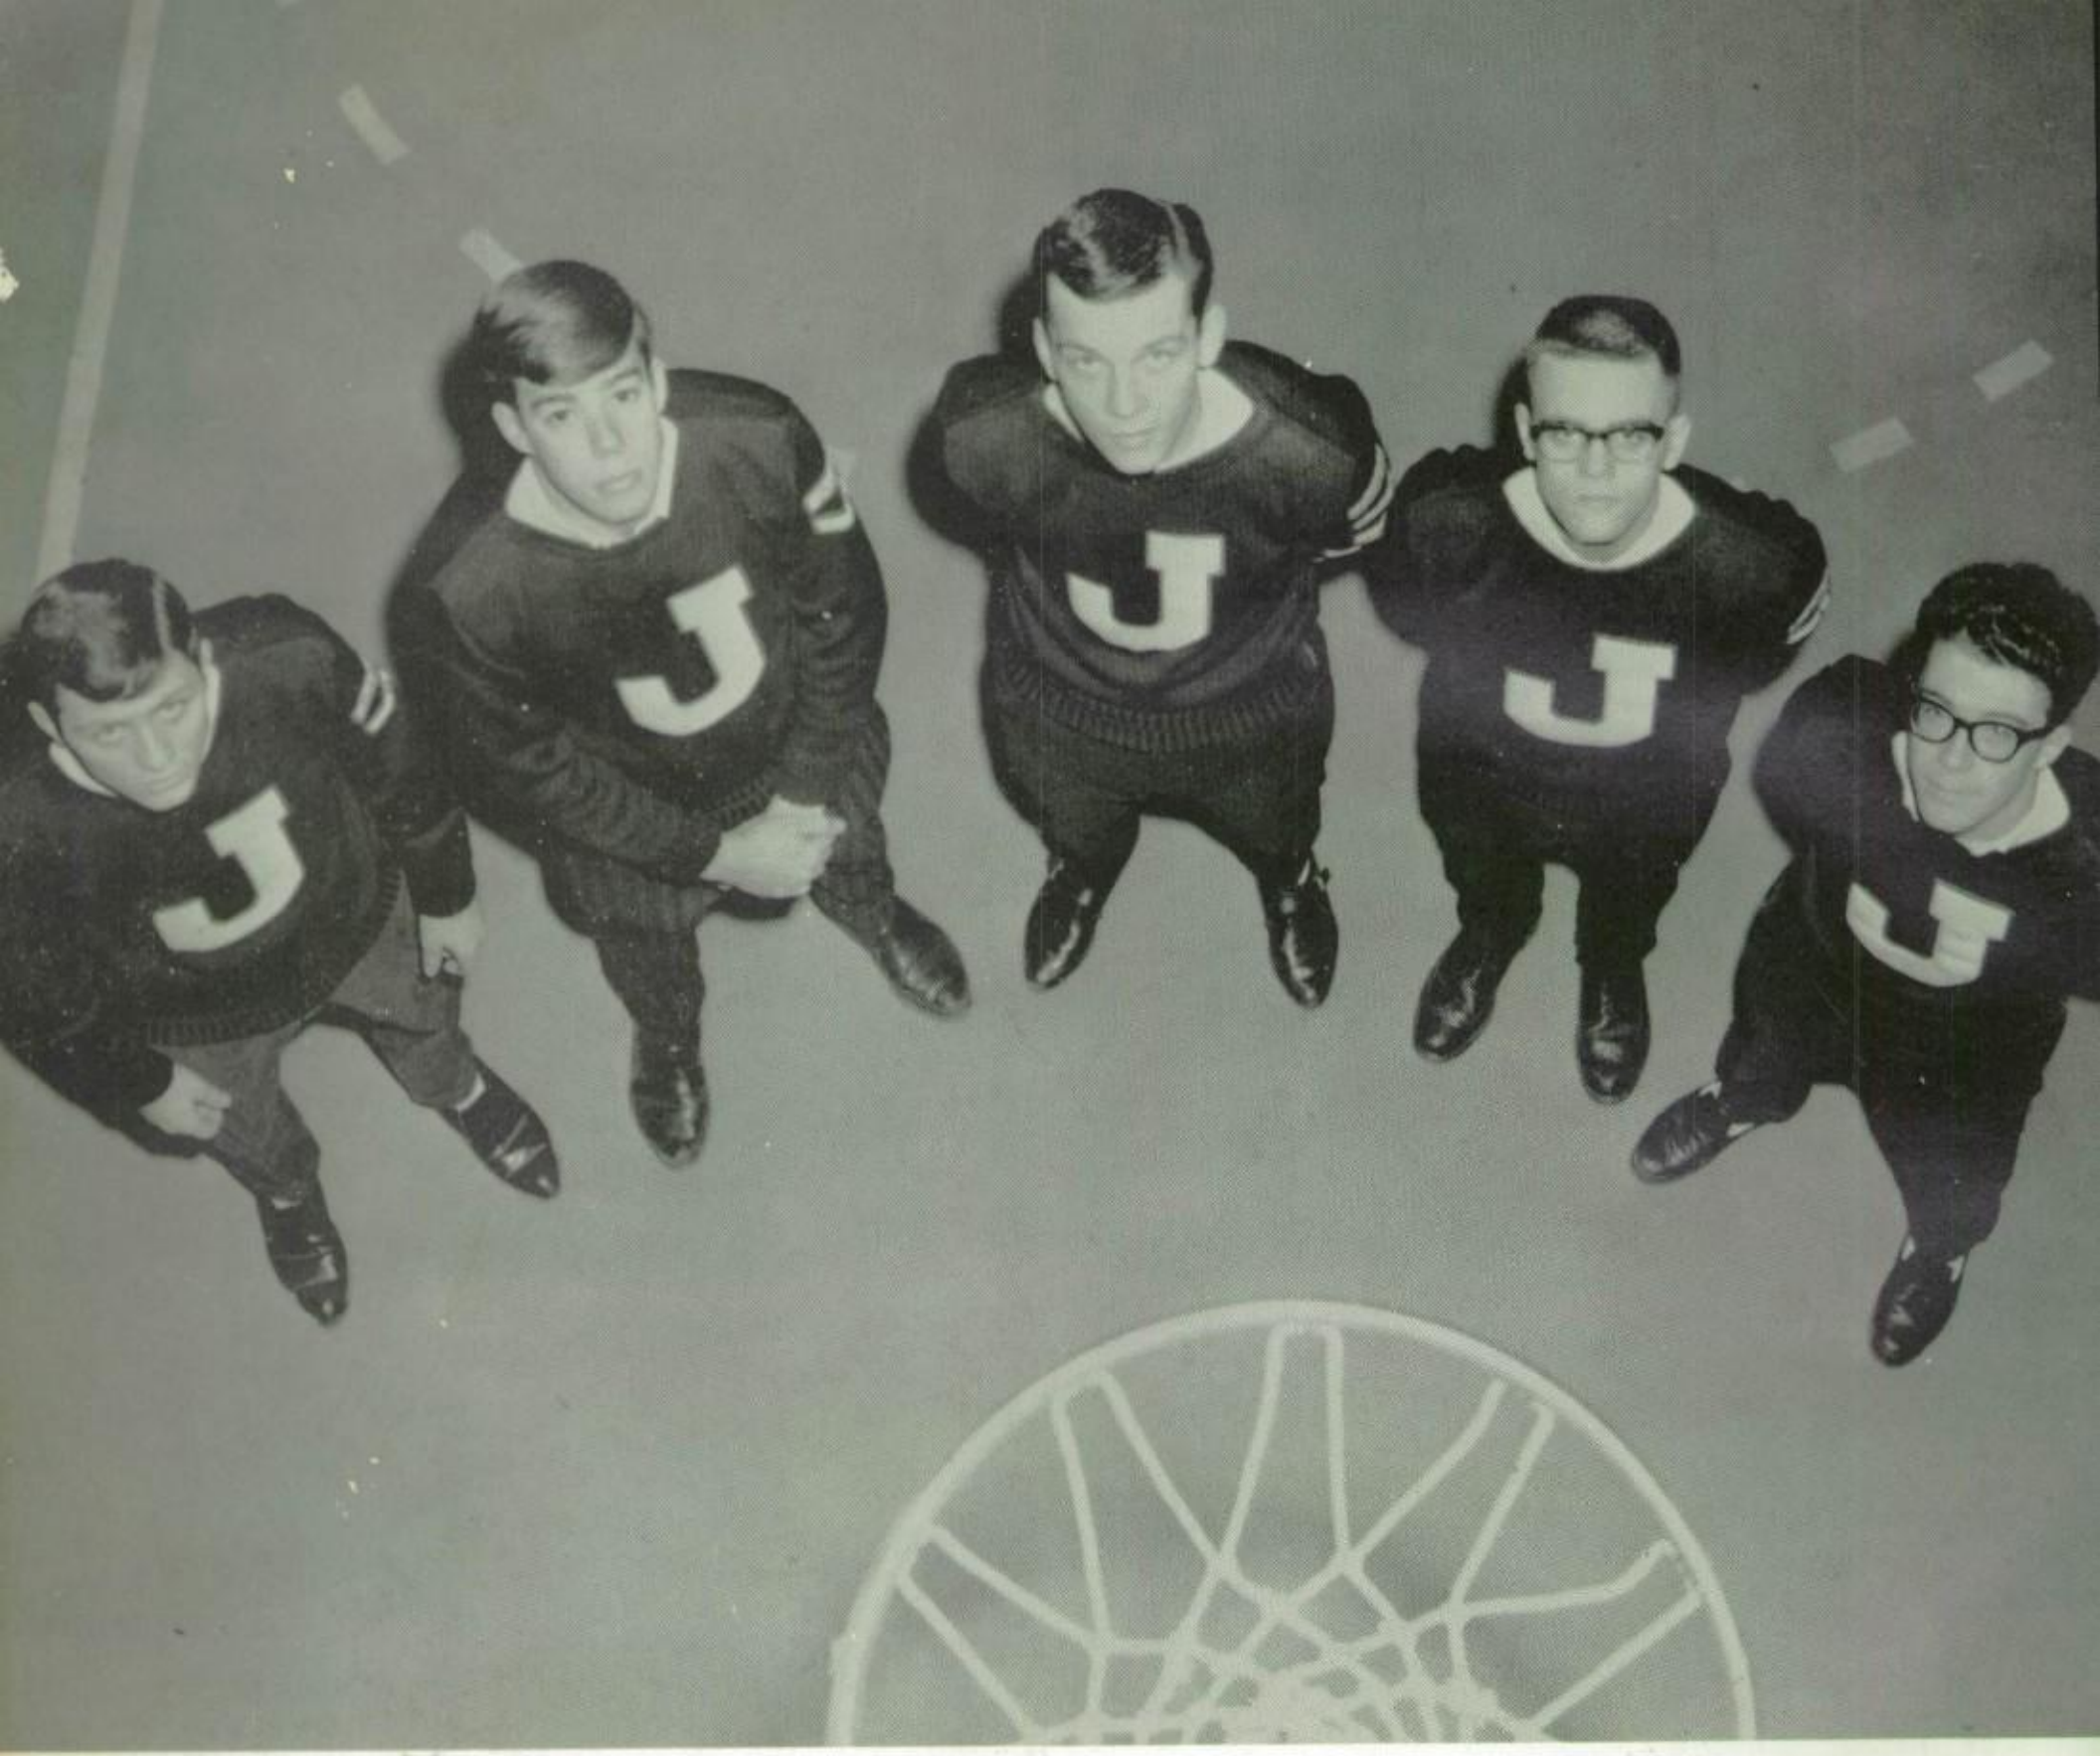
Sports play an important role at Jimtown. This is reflected in the growth and changes that took place in the athletic department this past year.

The growing participation in extramural and intramural sports, plans for a new gym, and the relocation of the football field are several changes that have occurred this past year to better meet the needs of a changing, growing student body.



Forming an arc the senior lettermen are from L-R: Roger Stickel, Larry Inman, Bob Newcomer, Chuck Hamlin, and Rick Rowland.

Senior Lettermen–Few but Fierce

Varsity letters are earned by superior performance in baseball, football, basketball, and track. This year, five senior boys have shown the determination and ability for which a letter is awarded. Roger Stickel, Larry Inman and Rick Rowland lettered in track, Bob Newcomer and Chuck Hamlin received their letters in basketball, and Rick Rowland was a basketball manager. Bob also got letters in football and baseball.

"Go, Mighty Jimmies, Go!"

es

Students make and are the reason for a school. Students are not inert and static, but they are always changing, growing, developing new skills, and forming new attitudes. Each class leaves its own distinctive imprint upon the school which forms and shapes the character of the school. These are the students that have given a particular character to Jimtown this past year.

School Board, Superintendent Plan School Policies

Our School Board—(Standing): Mr. Paul Hunsberger, Mr. Dan Cook, Mr. Lester Bailey. (Seated): Mr. Louis Bemiller, Mr. Lowell Sheets, Mr. Richard Herrli.

Developing and executing the plans for the new high school, consumed much of the school board's time. Board members toured schools in this area to get ideas for the new building.

Regular meetings are held in the office of the superintendent, Mr. Lowell Sheets, on the third Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m. All meetings of the school board are open to the public except executive sessions.

Our superintendent, Mr. Lowell Sheets, is known as the backbone of our school. He works efficiently and profitably along with the school board toward the end of more and better educational facilities—the dividends of which are passed on to the students.

From Ball State Teachers College, Mr. Sheets received his Bachelor of Science degree. He received his Master of Science degree from Indiana University.

When not occupied with school affairs, Mr. Sheets is an enthusiastic fisherman. He is also an active member of the Baugo Township Lions Club and served as its president for one year.

Mr. Sheets works hard on a never ending amount of work.

"May I have your attention please," says Mr. Bollinger. "The morning announcements are a little late, but . . ."

The Office Is the Heart of J.H.S.

Smiling faces and cheerful greetings meet Jimtown students whenever they enter the office. Mr. Bollinger, along with Mrs. Wenger, works out any problems which are brought before them. Even though crowded conditions are a problem for our office now, everyone is looking forward to the spacious office planned for the new high school.

The office is in charge of scheduling all activities which go on at Jimtown. It also has the responsibility of making the school days run as smoothly and efficiently as possible.

"Hmm . . . Thirty absent today . . . Wonder how the fishing is?"

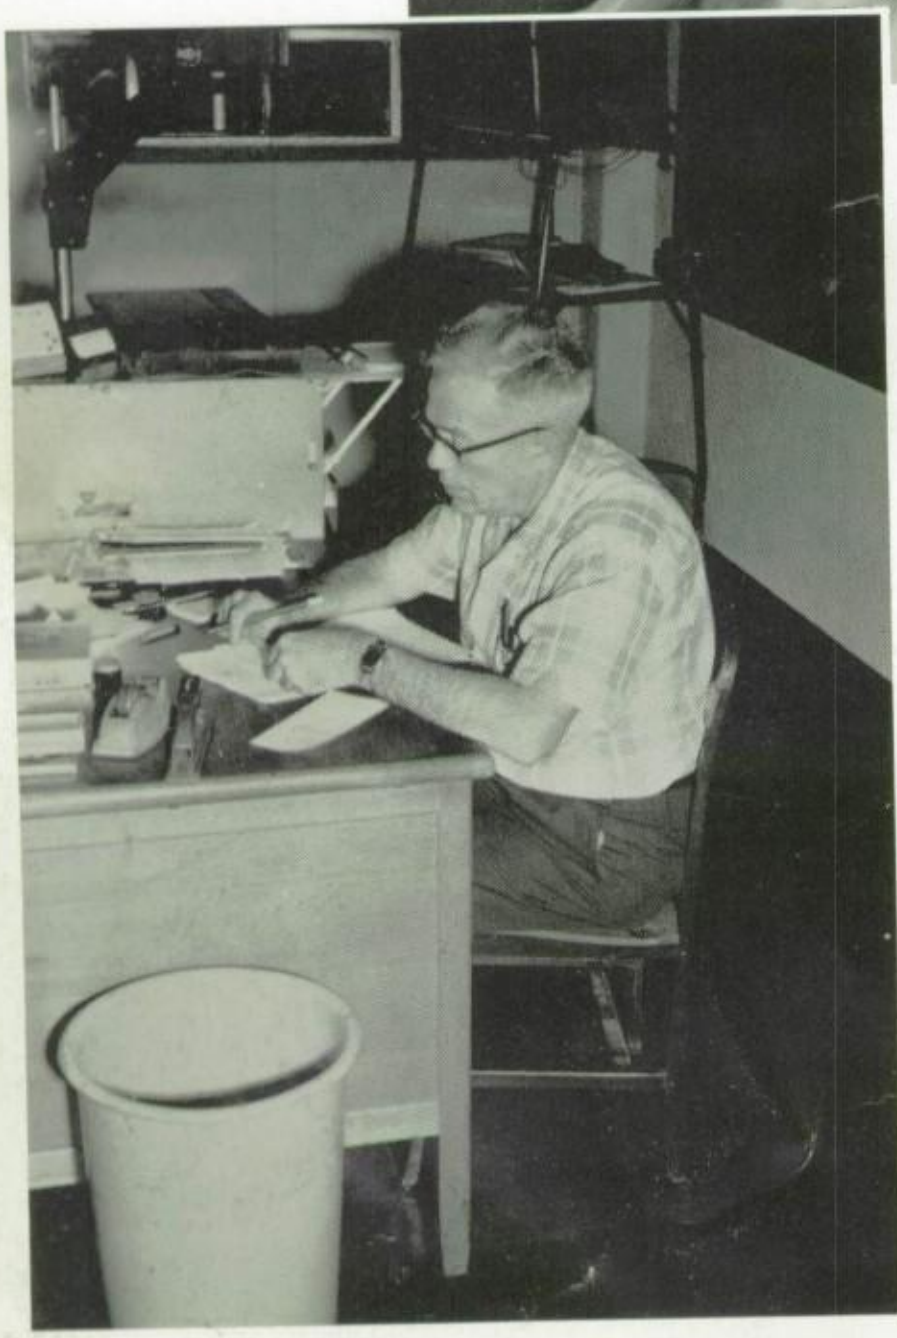
In Appreciation . . .

Mr. Knepp takes advantage of some free homeroom time to round off plans for the senior class trip.



The end of the day finds Mr. Knepp correcting his famous "pop quizzes."

Our Dear Mr. Knepp,

We, the Senior Class of 1964, should like to thank you for your sincere guidance as our sponsor during the last three years. You have been a true friend and helper through all our trials and tribulations.

You have supervised all our activities: sock hops, magazine sales, card and candy sales, and football and basketball concessions. As director of our junior and senior plays, you worked right along with us to create a successful production. You helped give an enjoyable prom for the class before us. Our class trip was really wonderful, thanks to your consideration and superb planning.

Whenever we came to a stumbling block, you were there to help us over and stand by to make sure everything went right.

We will always be indebted to you for your sincerity and faithfulness, and we hope this message will give you fond memories to look back on in your future years.

Yours truly,

The Class of 1964

MISS SUE ELLEN AMT

D.A.R. Winner

Sue Ellen Amt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Amt, 4800 West Indiana Avenue, Elkhart, was selected by the senior class and faculty members to be this year's recipient of the Daughters of the American Revolution award for good citizenship. At a tea given for the county D.A.R. winners by the William Tuffs Chapter of the D.A.R., Sue was presented with a pin and certificate as official recognition of her achievement.

Sue has participated in many school activities and clubs, among them G.A.A., G.A.A. bowling, and high school choir. She also belonged to the Student Council, the National Honor Society, Latin Club, F.H.A., and the yearbook staff.

Homemaker of Tomorrow

The Betty Crocker Award was won by Janet Marie Brenneman, daughter of Mrs. Helen Brenneman, R.R.#3, Elkhart. This award is presented annually to the girl who receives the highest score on the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow test.

Janet was very active in G.A.A., F.H.A., 4-H, Latin Club, Student Council, Honor Society, and the Jamestown High School Choir. She also acted as editor of the 1963-1964 School Bell Echoes.

MISS JANET MARIE BRENNEMAN

1964–Valedictorian and Salutatorian

MISS JANET MARIE BRENNEMAN

The valedictorian of the class of 1964 is Janet Marie Brenneman. She ranked first with an A- average of 3.81.

Janet, the daughter of Mrs. Helen Brenneman, R.R.#3, Elkhart, has participated in many activities throughout her high school years.

Last summer she attended a workshop at Indiana University to prepare for her position as yearbook editor.

Janet has been accepted by Western Michigan University and she will begin her studies there in September.

Cheryl Jean Walters, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Walters, R.R.#3, Elkhart, is this year's salutatorian. Her four year B average of 3.42 ranks her second in the class.

During high school, Cheryl has belonged to the Spanish Club, the National Honor Society, G.A.A., F.H.A., and the Racket Squad.

After commencement, she plans to do work in the secretarial field.
